Thank you for purchasing a manual from Infection Control Consulting Services, LLC

“ICCS”. To use the manual to the best advantage, please consider:

- The person designated to oversee Infection Control should carefully review the contents of the manual, determine if the policies and procedures are feasible, and if so, implement them and monitor for compliance. If they are not feasible for the facility, “ICCS” will adapt them for your use. An electronic version has been sent to you for quick reference and revision.
- Please review local, state, and federal requirements as well as JCAHO and other standards (if applicable) and national guidelines in setting up your infection control program. It is the user's responsibility to assure that the policies reflect current regulations, guidelines, and standards of practice. This manual is current as of December 2009 to the best of the author's knowledge. The author claims no liability for any inadvertent omissions or errors within the contents of this manual.
- The Infection Control Committee should meet on a regular basis and as a part of the agenda, review and revise infection control policies and procedures.
- The author will offer updates to this manual when available, for an extra charge.
- This manual may not be reproduced for sale or as a gift.
